1. Introduction and description of the assay

Introduction

2019-nCoV Antigen Saliva/Sputum Test is an immunochromatographic assay for rapid, qualitative detection of novel coronaviruses (2019-nCoV) antigen extracted from the saliva or sputum specimen.

Description of the assay (principle):

2019-nCoV Antigen Saliva/Sputum Test is based on the principle of immunochromatography sandwich for determination of 2019-nCoV antigen extracted from the saliva or sputum specimen. When the extracted specimen is added into the test device, the specimen is absorbed into the device by capillary action, reacts with the 2019-nCoV antibody-dye conjugate and flows across the pre-coated membrane.

When the 2019-nCoV antigen level in the specimen is at or above the target cutoff (the detection limit of the test), the antigen bound to the antibody-dye conjugate are combined by 2019-nCoV antibody immobilized in the Test Region (T) of the device, and this produces a colored test band that indicates a positive result. When the 2019-nCoV antigen level in the specimen is zero or below the target cutoff, there is not a visible colored band in the Test Region (T) of the device. This indicates a negative result.

To serve as a procedure control, a colored line will appear at the Control Region (C), if the test has been performed properly.

2. Evaluation method

In this trial, based on the comparison of PCR diagnosis results of the patients, clinical application study of 2019-nCoV Antigen Saliva/Sputum Test was conducted and thus verified the safety and effectiveness of such reagents manufactured by Guangzhou Wondfo Biotech Co., Ltd.

3. Clinical samples

A total of 635 clinical saliva and sputum samples were included in this trial.

4. Clinical trial period

December 1, 2020 to January 16, 2021

5. Results and Analysis

5.1 Test procedure

Throughout the evaluation, all samples should be collected and tested with the 2019-nCoV Antigen Saliva/Sputum Test and PCR assay test according to Instruction for Use supplied with the reagent.

There are two test procedure methods for 2019-nCoV Antigen Saliva/Sputum Test, they were all evaluated in this clinical trial.

5.2 Comparative Analysis of Trial Results

Trial Completion

A total of 252 PCR positive cases and 383 PCR negative cases were included in this trial of 2 clinical sites.

Major Effectiveness Statistical Methods

Compared with PCR results, calculate the sensitivity, specificity, overall consistency and the 95% confidence interval (CI) of test reagents. Sensitivity, specificity, overall consistency: range from 0%~100%, the closer the value is to 100%, the higher the degree of compliance with clinical diagnosis.

5.3 Result Analysis

Test results for Saliva are shown as Table 1, and clinical trial results are detailed in Annex I Clinical verification data list.

Table 1: 2 × 2 Contingency Table Analysis of PCR Results and Evaluation Reagent Test Results

There were 122 positive samples and 218 negative samples whose 2019-nCoV antigen detection results were consistent with PCR results. 3 cases were confirmed PCR positive and meanwhile tested negative by Wondfo 2019-nCoV Antigen Test (Lateral flow method) and 2 case was confirmed PCR negative and meanwhile tested positive by Wondfo 2019-nCoV Antigen Test (Lateral flow method).

Test results for Sputum are shown as Table 2, and clinical trial results are detailed in Annex I Clinical verification data list.
